

Independents Score Victory In SGA Election Wednesday Securing Eight Of Ten Posts

Constitutionalists Elect Two Members To A&S College

With eight candidates securing posts in Wednesday's SGA election for ten members, the Independent party scored a decisive victory over the Constitutionalists.

In the Arts and Sciences college, Betty Tevis, junior from Richmond, was elected as one of the two upper-class women and Betty Harris, Lexington, was named as one of the two lower-class women.

Helen Davis, Paris, was elected to the assembly as upperclass woman from the Agriculture college; Mason Noe, junior from Shepherdsville, was selected as Commons man-at-large; and Marjorie Smith, Owensboro, was named upper-class woman representative from the College of Education.

Independents unopposed in their candidacy were Jack Banahan, Lexington, Arts and Sciences lowerclass man; William LeGrande, Owensboro, Agriculture man-at-large; and Norman Chrisman, Pikeville, Engineering upperclass man.

The two Constitutionalists elected were Owen Pace, junior from Tazewell, Fla., as one of the two upper-class women from the Arts and Sciences college, and Marjean Wenzel, Cincinnati, Ohio, as the other lowerclass woman in the Arts and Sciences college.

From the four colleges in which the vacancies occurred, 354 students cast votes at the polling place in the YM-YWCA lounge of the Union building from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Wednesday.

The Student Government association election committee, composed of Chairman Betty Ann Ginochio, Constitutionalists and vice-president of SGA; Earl Ashcraft, Independent; Jerry Napier, Independent; and George Warwick, Constitutionalists, instituted the checking system used to prevent fraud in the election and a member of the committee was present at the polls at all times. Campaigning in the Union building was prohibited during the time the polls were open.

Applications were filed by the candidates on Wednesday, November 22, at the Registrar's office. According to the SGA Constitution, a student eligible as a candidate for a seat in the legislature must have a 1.3 scholastic standing, have been a resident student for at least two quarters, and must be enrolled in the college in which the vacancy occurs.

Hanging Of Greens Set For Thursday

Dr. Lyle R. Dawson, professor of chemistry from the Louisiana Polytechnic institute, now on leave, has been named head of the University Chemistry department by the Executive committee of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Dawson has been the supervisor of a group of chemists in war research work in the metallurgical laboratory at the University of Chicago since December, 1943. He succeeds Dr. L. L. Quill, and his duties will begin on January 1.

Native of Illinois

A native of Long Point, Ill., Dr. Dawson is married and has one child. He holds the M.S. degree in inorganic chemistry from the University of Illinois and the Ph.D. in physical chemistry from the University of Iowa. He has taught at State Teachers college, Eau Claire, Wis., the University of Omaha, and Louisiana Polytechnic institute. For two and one-half years he was research chemist with the Universal Atlas Cement company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel company, at Gary, Ind.

The University's executive committee met November 22 in the office of President Donovan. Other business transacted included agreement on the final details of settlement with the Mawen Motor corporation, which was represented at the meeting by J. L. Kelduff, president of the corporation. The University's contract with the New York concern was terminated last June 30.

President Donovan asked the committee's approval of a contract with the Air Technical Service Command, Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, for work in the aeronautical laboratory; renewal of the contract for the University book store with James W. Morris for a period of two years; and approval of partitioning off and preparing classroom and office space for the new Department of Geography in the Biological Sciences building.

The committee passed resolutions on four recent deaths among University students.

200 High School Journalists Convene On Campus Today

Nearly 200 students and advisers representing high school newspapers throughout the state arrived on the campus this morning to attend a wartime clinic of the Kentucky High School Press Association. The convention will continue through tomorrow noon.

The clinic, sponsored by the University's Department of Journalism, instead of the annual convention of pre-war years, will be highlighted by journalistic contests for $50 in war stamps offered by the Lexington Herald-Leader and $10 in war stamps offered by the Kentucky Press Association.

Another feature will be publication in the department of Journalism of an all-state newspaper, to be entirely written and edited by delegates attending the conference. Kernel staff members will aid the high school journalists.

The two-day program also will include 20 different clinics or round-tables on problems of high school newspapers, a number of workbooks in which students will compete for the war stamp awards, and four clinics at which faculty of the Journalism department will evaluate state high school newspapers submitted for criticism.

The clinic this year was scheduled by the University Journalism department after an almost unanimous vote of the high school newspapers. The annual convention was suspended in 1941 as a result of the war.

Delegates will be guests at the sweater swing tonight, and will participate in a round-table of the air to be transcribed by the University radio studios.

McCauley Chosen Kyian Beauty Queen

Doris McCauley, Greenwich, Conn., Kappa Kappa Gamma candidate in the yearbook contest, who was chosen Kentuckian beauty queen, was formally presented and crowned at the dance Saturday night, November 18, in the Union ballroom.

Her attendants in the ceremony were the other three final contestants: Doris Smith, Maureen Rose, and Lucy Meyer, and runners-up: Betty Haynes, Bobby Jean Omer, and Anne Ensminger.

Dr. Polling Emphasizes Moral Duties

Addresses Third Of Convo Series On November 22

Dr. Daniel Polling, editor of the Christian Herald, addressed the student body and faculty at the third convocation of the fall quarter at 10 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 22, in Memorial hall. He spoke on "The Spiritual Aspects of the War."

In his talk Dr. Polling emphasized the moral obligation of the people to support the men in the armed services. "Killers they are," said Dr. Polling, "but they know that winning the war is winning the peace." Time and again the speaker stressed the prominent role that youth will be called upon to play in solving the problems of today. "The last war was one of great destruction," he said, "but the present war is the most beastly of all wars."

Dr. Polling then told of a number of personal experiences with the men he had met during his 127,000 miles of overseas travel. He said that the various religious denominations aid one another immensely in the foxholes. He recalled one experience on Natal where he asked a Baptist minister to drive him to the nearest town so that he might make a purchase. "I'm sorry," apologized the minister, "but I have to conduct Jewish services this evening for a Roman Catholic priest who is unable to come."

"The Chaplain corps, medical science, and the Red Cross," said Dr. Polling, "form the greatest trinity of service to the men in the armed forces. . . . war is bringing the many religions closer together. . . . tomorrow is destined to be better than today. . . . I am not trying to glorify war, I've seen war twice. . . . this is something of the twentieth century version of good to one another."

"Blessed shall be the peacemaker," concluded Dr. Polling, "for they shall be called the sons of God."

Having Your Kyian Mailed?

All graduating seniors who wish to have their annuals mailed to them must leave thirty-five cents at the Kentuckian office to cover wrapping and postage costs. June Baker, editor, has announced.

The deadline for turning in snapshots to be printed in the yearbook is December 8. And everyone who took pictures at the pep rally last Friday and at the Kentucky-Tennessee football game is requested to bring them in to the Kentuckian office.

What Has Happened To School Spirit?

By Mary Louise Patton

Now that the football season is over, and there has been plenty of occasion to watch the reaction of the students in the stadium to the efforts of their college team, the question of school spirit comes up.

In inquiring about student opinion on the matter we found that many feel that UK spirit is not anything like it has been in the past, and that the football fans weren't as enthusiastic and didn't give the team as much support as they formerly did. It is understandable that such an grave crisis as war would dampen to some degree the spirit in a University, however it shouldn't drown out the spirit altogether.

Several students suggested that a bigger and better attendance at pep rallies would definitely help, and that the yell be learned. The cheerleaders must have a rather hopeless

Current Play Acclaimed Guignol's Best

Little Theater
Play Features
Comics Galore

By Myrtle Weathers

The first production of the current Guignol season, "Junior Miss," starring Beth Caddy in the title role of Judy, is comparable with the New York presentation of the same play. The slap-stick comedy kept the audience laughing during the entire performance.

Capitulates Audience
Ivory Ross, portraying Fuffy Adams, Judy's adolescent companion, captivated the audience in act I by her unassuming manner and her unbiased opinion that she was an authority on matters of love. Although she was competent as the distracted Judy, Miss Caddy overacted on several occasions, in the opening night performance.

Elli Papa and Sarah McLean Wilson, both old-timers in Guignol, played Harry and Grace Graves, Judy's parents, in their usual excellent style. J. B. Curtis, Papa Graves' boss, is portrayed by Edmund Mills, who was formerly connected with the Pittsburgh Playhouse.

Rather weak in her part but adequate, Lois Graves, played by Jean Collier, is the sophisticated member of the family. "The men in her life," said John Renfro, W. B. Wrensch, Conrad Richardson, and Robert Oden, added much to the play with their performances of typical high school boys.

Irvine Adds Mystery
Ellen Curtis and Willis Reynolds, played by Carolyn Schoeffler and Don Irvine, were the two "young lovers." Miss Schoeffler does well in her part as the boss' daughter, and Mr. Irvine, who is Judy's prize uncle, furnishes the element of mystery in the play.

Hilda, the disgruntled maid, played by Opal Palmer, almost steals the show in her few appearances on the stage. Hugh Collier, the singing Western Union boy, was very amusing in his portrayal. Don Evans as Haskell Cummings, and Jennings Kearby as Barlowe Adams, were good in their parts of adolescent boys. Mary Mulligan played the part of the maid and elevator girl.

Stage Setting Good
Wallace N. Briggs, producing-director of Guignol theatre's 1944-45 season, has done excellent work with his first play. The stage setting, which he also helped to prepare, is one of the best in the history of the little theatre.

"Junior Miss" will run through Monday and Tuesday instead of closing on Saturday as had been previously announced. Mr. Briggs said on Thursday morning. The ticket offices will be open as usual from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Violinist, Pianist Wish To Continue Musical Studies

By Casey Goman
The concert stage is the aim toward which Mary Joseph Leeds, the violinist who presented the concert last Sunday in Memorial hall, is working.

Miss Leeds, a senior at the Cincinnati College of Music, said that she intends to continue studying for the next few years, and then begin her career. She has been a featured soloist with the Cincinnati Symphony this year.

In an after-the-concert interview, Miss Leeds declared that she studied the piano for a number of years, but she didn't like it. So she took up the violin as a last resort!

Bond Drive Far Below Campus Goal

Sixth Loan Drive
Lowest To Date;
Fund Only $98.85

"The victory committee is very much disappointed in the results of the first week of the war loan drive," Sara Dee Rainey, chairman of the victory committee of the Student Government association, said Wednesday. The goal was set at $70,000, and the results at the end of the first week totaled only $98.85. The sixth war loan drive began Monday, November 20 and will end December 14. A booth has been set up in the Union building opposite the Card room, where both bonds and stamps are sold. SGA is sponsoring the campaign.

Alma Clarkson, chairman of the sales committee, has announced the amount of bonds bought, according to sororities, fraternities, and dormitories. Phi Delta Theta heads the list, with a total of $75.40. Others in the order of bonds bought are: Sigma Chi, $6.30; Alpha Gamma Delta, $5.50; Chi Omega and Kappa Delta, $2.95 each; Jewell hall, $1.80; Alpha Delta Pi, $1.75; Kappa Kappa Gamma, $1.20; Delta Delta Delta, $.50. Those not listed have bought no bonds to date.

"Our members are contributing their time and effort toward this cause, and we did expect the support and cooperation of the student body," Miss Rainey said, "according to Eleanor Beach, chairman of the fifth war loan drive, the bonds sold at the University in the previous drive amounted to nearly $100,000." "We realize that this is rather a bad time of the year for a drive of this kind on a university campus, because of the nearness to the end of the quarter and Christmas. However, our men and women overseas are not celebrating any such holiday by ceasing all military affairs—Christmas will be just another day to them."

Miss Rainey also announced the committee members of the victory committee. These committees are: sales committee, Alma Clarkson, chairman; members each representing a sorority or dormitory are: Polly Thompson, Alpha Gamma Delta; Wilma Canada, Alpha Delta Pi; Joan Barnett, Alpha Xi Delta; Elizabeth Carey, Chi Omega; Marie Cottingham, Delta Delta Delta; Mary Margaret Marks, Kappa Delta; Ruth Schroeder, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Roberta Ratchford, Zeta Tau Alpha; Carolyn Stephens, Patti hall; Roberta Wilson, Boyd hall; Allene Preston, Jewell hall; Donna Dean Maggard, Lydia Brown house; Lucy Byrd Olliver, Shelby house.

Fort Knox-Wildcat Game Opens Basketball Season Tomorrow Night In Gym

Plaque Hung In UK Gym

Honors Athletes
Killed In War

The bronze plaque presented to the University by the Alumni association in honor of former athletes who have lost their lives in World War II will be hung in the Alumni gymnasium along with pictures of other honored athletes in uniform.

In the half-time program of the Kentucky-Tennessee game last Saturday afternoon, Grover H. Creech, president of the Alumni association, presented the plaque to Bernie A. Shively, athletic director of the University. The plaque is inscribed, "The University of Kentucky Alumni Association honors the Gold Star Athletes of World War II."

Taps were blown, and the students in the stadium on Stoll field sang "My Buddy," and "My Old Kentucky Home" in the ceremony honoring the athletes.

The program was dedicated to Capt. Edward L. Gholson of Paducah, a member of the University basketball and football squads; 2nd Lieut. James L. King and Melvin C. Brewer, New Albany, Ind., winners of all-Southeastern Conference honors as basketball centers; 2nd Lieut. William L. Stephenson, a Lexingtonian and member of the University swimming team; and Lieut. James W. Goforth of Louisville who won letters in both basketball and football.

In addition to the presentation of the plaque fifty-two men from Company A, ASTP, and forty-eight members of K-Dets, women's drill team, gave an exhibition drill between the halves. For the first time in the history of the school the men's and women's teams drilled together. They executed complicated movements, some of which were originated by the Pershing Rifles group on the campus.

Dr. Farquhar Receiving Visitors

Prof. E. F. Farquhar, of the University Department of English, who has been seriously ill at the Good Samaritan hospital, is now receiving visitors. It was reported Thursday morning.

Students are invited to call on Professor Farquhar, but are asked to limit their visits to a few minutes.

Alicia Coffin Addresses University Women's Group

Stressing the purpose and mechanism of the WSSF, World Student Service Fund, Miss Alicia Coffin, national traveling secretary for the organization, told a group of University women Tuesday that American students must become interested in world affairs and know what other countries are doing and thinking, to carry out educational plans in the world.

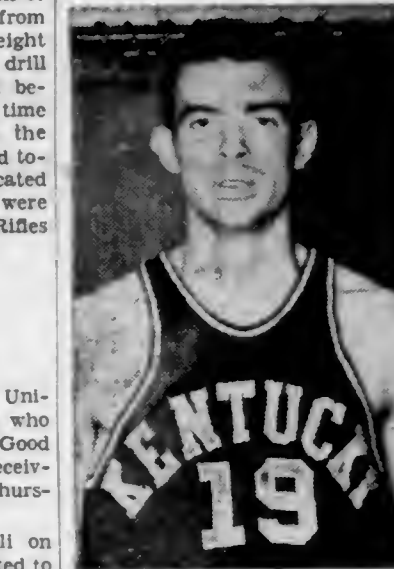

The WSSF, a part of the national war fund, is a fund-raising organization which operates primarily in colleges and universities in the United States in order to raise money for

Cage Squad Has Three Lettermen; Prospects Good

By Betty Tevis

Basketball is back in Kentucky, and probably with the proverbial "bang," for Coach Adolph Rupp, the man who has consistently turned out top-flight court squads, says this year's team should be a "good ball club." That admission from the usually reticent coach, plus the fact that four of last year's lettermen are returning, makes the prospects even more encouraging.

Opener of the season is tomorrow night's game against Fort Knox's service team, at 7:30 in Alumni gym. Little information is available about the Knox club, or about the Berea college Navy V-12 outfit the Wildcats netters will tackle Monday night. Both teams, however, were defeated by Kentucky last year in early-season encounters. Squad members on service teams change continually and usually such aggregations give the 'Cats far less trouble than full-time civilian college fives.

The basketball schedule includes 20 games, many with big-leaguers like Ohio State and Notre Dame. The Wildcats ended last season with 21 wins and one loss, indicating that such teams will meet tough competition from Kentucky this year as well.

The three returning lettermen, pictured above, are forward Jack Tingle; guard Jack Parkinson, SEC conference high-scorer in 1944, and forward Wilbur Schu, also a Wildcat gridiron pillar. Other footballers who joined practice sessions this week, a month after a squad of 40 others had begun drilling, are: Bill Chambers, a regular last season at the University of Cincinnati; Kenton (Dutch) Campbell, contender for the center post, Jim Howe, Norman Klein, and Norman Weiner.

Other promising court talent includes tall, lanky, Alex John Groat, of Martins Ferry, Ohio, who is considered by local sportsmen as good as stellar-center Bob Brannum, last year's All-American. Members of the state basketball champion squads for two consecutive years are also contenders for team spots: members of the Brooksville Polar Bears and Sing Year and Dick Derrickson of Lafayette high school's Generals.

Kentucky fans may expect a good basketball season, packed with all the thrills of last year and augmented by plenty of powerful reserves.

The schedule follows:

Question: Do you think a college newspaper should publish a scandal column?

Penny Snook, A & S, freshman: Yes, because you can find out what "who's who" on the campus is doing.

Charlie Wood, A & S, freshman: No, because a person's business is his own and nobody else's.

John Marx, A & S, special student. Yes, I like to know what other people are doing.

"Sassy" Saslaw, A & S, freshman. No, with the shortage of Kleenex there is enough trouble trying to keep one's nose clean.

Betty Brady, A & S, freshman. Yes, but I think they should use initials to arouse curiosity.

Jim Tucker, A & S, freshman. Definitely, I think it adds spice to the paper.

Elizabeth Noble, A & S, senior: Yes, it makes so many people happy to see their name in print.

Margaret Goggin, Ag, junior. Sure, you get inside information on everybody.

Bob Drake, Eng, freshman. Definitely, 'cause I like to see peoples' names in the paper.

Betty Cockrell, A & S, freshman. Certainly, because what would the world be without gossip?

George A. Watson, Com, sophomore. Yes, 'cause gossip just comes natural.

Betty Ann Ginochio, A & S, junior. No, because it doesn't serve a constructive purpose and is destructive itself. It fosters too much bad feeling.

Sarah Rankin, Ag, junior. Yes, because it's interesting and entertaining reading.

Neel McDonald, Ag, sophomore. Yes, because the organized minority always overrules the majority.

Secretary Explains Function Of UK's Social Committee

Office of the Social Director
November 28, 1944
Editor, Kentucky Kernel
University of Kentucky
Lexington, Kentucky

Dear Editor:

There seems to be some confusion in the minds of the students concerning the University Social Committee as evidenced by an item in "Measuring Up" in the November third issue of The Kernel. The members of the Social Committee feel that since this confusion appears to be campus-wide, they would like to clarify and explain its constitution, functions and jurisdiction.

The Social Committee is not a Student Union Committee, as was intimated in the above-mentioned item, but is an all-University committee appointed by the President and composed of faculty members and representatives of all major student organizations. The Dean of Women has been appointed chairman by the President.

The functions of this Committee are to clear all extra-curricular events, both faculty and student; to prevent conflicts of major or all-campus events; and to plan a balanced extra-curricular program on the campus.

The Committee cannot successfully carry out these functions unless all organizations cooperate by clearing the affairs they plan. At the end of each quarter they are asked to submit to the Social Director requests for dates during the coming quarter as well as the dates of regularly scheduled meetings. A calendar is made up of those dates approved by the Committee. The organizations are notified that their requests have been granted, or if denied, an open date is suggested. If events are planned after the calendar is made up, they must be cleared by the Committee.

3. Orchids of the week go to Wally Briggs, for his excellent direction of the play "Junior Miss." One New York student said that the play was as good, if not better than the New York production. Another is Captain Marion Yates of the University Girls' Drill Team. That girl can really march! The newest sash sensation of the campus is Jim Howe. But what is this I hear about his threatening to make someone walk home one night?

4. As much as our dear friend Nostradamus has been mentioned lately, as being the first guy to make correct predictions in a year B.C. as to what will happen today, there are some individuals who do not know who he was. One of these people made the fatal mistake of asking a contemporary practical joker about the man. The wit told her that he used to be a professor in the history department, made good like Dr. Dupre, and left. Not being content with the explanation, our friend has been inquiring around the history department as to when Professor Nostradamus taught here.

5. Mrs. Turner has a new pin-up boy in her room. It seems that Mary Dunlap became quite distressed at looking at "Cris" picture day after day (especially when he fails to write) so she donated the picture to Mrs. Turner, until he redeems himself. Millie Johnston's Jive Cats, the band with three 10-cent flutes, are practicing to give their first concert at Memorial hall.

THE SALT SHAKER

By Billie Fischer

It's our guess that in a few years Broadway will no longer be famous as a theatrical center. People won't say, "Have you seen any plays on Broadway recently?" but, "Have you seen any plays on Euclid recently?" Nothing we could say would completely express our delight with Guignol's Junior Miss. When we started out for the theater on opening night, we had no intention of enjoying the production, for we had already seen it on Broadway, and had appeared in it in high school. BUT we were so thrilled with it that we went back and saw it again the following night.

Our heartiest congrats go to Director Wally Briggs, who was without a doubt the most comfortable person in the audience on opening night. Wally crossed his fingers when the show started, and didn't uncross them until the show was over, three hours later!

In one of the scenes, the mother, after learning that the family income would be greatly reduced, said to her husband that her older daughter would have to go to Hunter College instead of Smith. And the father replied, "The boys are going to miss her at Yale." A woman sitting behind us missed his line and asked her friend to repeat it.

for her. In a loud whisper the friend said, "The boys are going to miss her at Yale!"

When Bob Cantor and Lil Cook were married a month ago they had a double ring ceremony. One of Bob's fingers was in a splint, and "Cookie" had a difficult time trying to pin on his wedding band. After frantically beating Bob's injured digit to a pulp, she breathed a sigh of relief and said, "With this ring, I thee wed."

Well, the feud's over. As Father Divine would say, "Peace, it's wonderful!"

After three days of phoning Cincinnati, sending four telegrams and two special deliveries, we managed to get tickets to Othello. And it was worth the trouble. The hilarious expedition alone was worth the trouble.

When we arrived in Cincinnati, we set out for the Neiderland Plaza to keep an appointment. All we knew about it was that it was a very tall building. Sighting a baby skyscraper, I exclaimed joyfully, "There's a tall building!" Three passing lap dogs.

sailors roared with laughter and made remarks about the little country girl visiting the city for the first time. How were they to know that the "little country girl's" home town is New York!

When we finally arrived at the theater, we found that the show had already begun. An usher led us down the aisle to our seats. And she really led us, for we couldn't see a thing in the utter blackness. All four of us fumbled around, feeling hysterically for our seats, but we succeeded only in bumping into each other, wandering off our course and getting lost in the aisle that ran from one side of the theater to the other. Creeping around, I grasped the arm of a chair and sat down very quickly—only to hear a deep masculine voice mutter apologetically, "I'm sorry, but I'm sitting here." A friend pulled me into a seat and whispered that she, too, had sat in someone's lap. When the lights went on at the end of the act, we discovered that all four of us had sat down on a row of priests! Trying to hide my embarrassment, I withdrew into my fur jacket and barked a few times—hoping that the priests would think I was just an affectionate tall building!

In the confines of the AWS lounge at the University of Washington there is small, inoffensive brown door marked "Date Bureau." All a fellow has to do is describe his dream girl, and no matter how fussy or peculiar his desires may be, he'll have a chance to meet her the following Friday.

Is a difficult thing to do. My class notes start, "My Darling,"

An end with "I love you."

First classes at North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, were held on the second floor of a hardware store.

It's an old tradition at Grinnell College, Ia., not to have a date for the Friday night basketball games.

BLACK
Black shadows steal down from the sky
When darkness creeps down from heaven;
The rain falls from a moonless black infinity
To shine on the wet black streets.
On such dark nights the black thoughts of one's past
Creep up to smother and choke in the damp, black darkness.

The classified section of the Northwestern University's daily recently contained an ad which stated that for a nominal fee a capable person would write themes for any hard-pressed student. Those interested were to call 7000 and ask for Frank. One eager student called the number and offered his proposition before he discovered that he was talking to Frank Snyder, president of the university.

Penthouse, University of Washington's unique arena-style theatre, is receiving another touch of originality. The auditorium which is built with the stage directly in the middle of the room is surrounded with a circular foyer. A professor of the school of arts is now decorating the foyer walls with murals in tempera opaque water colors depicting a circus motif.

NEW CAMERA "SHOOTS" FLYING PROJECTILES

WHEN Army ballistics experts needed to photograph speeding rockets, scientists at Bell Telephone Laboratories built the special "ribbon-frame" camera. Their experience came from making high speed cameras to study tiny movements in telephone equipment parts.

The new camera gets its name from the narrow slot that exposes a ribbon of film at a speed of one ten-thousandth of a second. These "stills," taken on ordinary film, show a fast flying P-17 firing its underwing rocket.

This is an example of the many ways Bell System research is helping to provide better weapons, better equipment for war and peacetime telephone service.

Measuring Up!

By Adele Denman

1. Reminiscently speaking, do you remember the old days when one came to University dances, was asked to dance by one boy, then at the end of the dance, was introduced to another boy, who danced until the end of the piece, then repeated the process, etc. Things are tough all over, but don't you think the boys who attend dances these days could revive this old tradition and make our present day dances better in every way? Girls may enjoy doing all the breaking, but after a time it becomes tiresome. The well-known phrase: "I got the biggest rush tonight," has changed gender—from feminine to masculine—don't you think our men could assume their old roles of being men, not the belles of the ball?

2. Never could I term our present student enrollment atheists, but don't you think it would be nice for them to decide which religious principle to adhere to? In many discussions I have heard students who considered themselves too educated for religion, say there was no God, no life after death, no death and no life. These statements make all of us spirits floating like the letters in the alphabet soup of life. Since the more disgustingly realistic of us know we live, die and go to ———, don't you think that these people, even if they can't be right, could be consistent?

3. Orchids of the week go to Wally Briggs, for his excellent direction of the play "Junior Miss." One New York student said that the play was as good, if not better than the New York production. Another is Captain Marion Yates of the University Girls' Drill Team. That girl can really march! The newest sash sensation of the campus is Jim Howe. But what is this I hear about his threatening to make someone walk home one night?

4. As much as our dear friend Nostradamus has been mentioned lately, as being the first guy to make correct predictions in a year B.C. as to what will happen today, there are some individuals who do not know who he was. One of these people made the fatal mistake of asking a contemporary practical joker about the man. The wit told her that he used to be a professor in the history department, made good like Dr. Dupre, and left. Not being content with the explanation, our friend has been inquiring around the history department as to when Professor Nostradamus taught here.

5. Mrs. Turner has a new pin-up boy in her room. It seems that Mary Dunlap became quite distressed at looking at "Cris" picture day after day (especially when he fails to write) so she donated the picture to Mrs. Turner, until he redeems himself. Millie Johnston's Jive Cats, the band with three 10-cent flutes, are practicing to give their first concert at Memorial hall.

OVER THERE

American sweethearts and wives of servicemen may be pleasantly surprised this Christmas when they receive a fluffy angora sweater from France.

But perhaps the girls will be a little puzzled when they look for the size and find it an "Isabel," "Jacqueline" or "Monique." "Monique" is for the little girls; "Jacqueline" for the "just right" girls, and "Isabel" is for the slightly larger girl. In Paris, according to a recently published article on shopping in France by an American correspondent.

French sizes run entirely different from the accustomed American ones. There a tiny foot glides smoothly into a size 36 shoe, and a little 115 lb girl would be highly insulted when a size 40 dress would not fit her.

The article continued that Mlle. Izzy, who is also known to soldiers as Nelly Nancy Nan, and her girl friends all give at least thirty hours a week helping the GI's get their wives and girl friends something really nice from Paris, and the girls at home needn't raise their eyebrows about it either.

There has been such a demand for two certain perfumes that it is practically impossible to find any more downtown. The store of one maker has a line of GI's half a block long every morning before the doors open, and then only a handful manage to get a package of either of the prize numbers. After perfumes, the bets are silk scarves, handkerchiefs, bracelets, and novelty jewelry.

So when you receive a Christmas package from Paris, you can be sure it was well chosen and probably pretty expensive. A nice little sweater averages about 2,500 francs or $50 in American money.

The American boys who have been making wild dashes through the stores on 48-hour leaves from the front trying to gather up Christmas packages for home are finding Mlle. Izzy, a pretty brunette, better watch her girls and her covey of Parisiennes the greatest goddess in Paris. Mlle. Izzy is Santa Claus' aide de camp at a special shopping service section at the Red Cross Rainbow corner, with more than eighty Parisian girl volunteers aiding her to help baffled GI's, and according to Mlle. Izzy, the soldiers have simplified the Parisian size problem to nothingness.

"Zey look at me; zey look at Jacqueline; zey look at Monique, and say 'Ah, comme ca,'" says Mlle. Izzy. And that gals, is probably the only reason your Christmas gift sweater isn't about the size for a 3-year-old child.

OVER HERE

With all this early shopping now getting under way, it seems the right time to give the gypsy's warning to the unsuspecting shopper who may have had the idea of giving a gift of a 2-strand necklace of simulated pearls. These are the kind one picked up on any counter, in pre-war days for $2 in department stores to $7 in the exclusive shops.

Not so today, a 2-strand choker

Sigma Chi's Feted

The members of Sigma Chi fraternity were entertained with a buffet supper Sunday, November 19, at the home of Mrs. Paul Schubert on Fincastle road by members of the Mothers club of the fraternity.

Decorations were in the fraternity colors, blue and gold.

Radio Schedule

This week the University Radio studio introduces a new series of radio programs, "Who's Who in Kentucky," by W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the Graduate school. The six talks will be: Introduction—Some Old Pioneers; the "Down and Outers"; The Agriculturnists; Our Public Enemies; The Little Fellows; Some Unappreciated Citizens. These are animal stories, to be told by Dr. Funkhouser.

The WHAS schedule for the week: Saturday, December 2: 12:30 to 1 p.m., "Your Home and Mine," by Miss Orin Johnson, assistant in information.

1 to 1:15 p.m., "Who's Who in Kentucky," by W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the graduate school.

1:15 to 1:30 p.m., "Kentucky Stories," No. 11—Davies county.

Sunday, December 3: 12 to 12:30 p.m., "UK Round Table" by Dr. Henry Noble Sherwood, Ely Culbertson, A. E. Evans, dean of the Law school, and Colonel Guy Chipman. Subject: Post-War World Organization.

Monday, December 4: 12:50 to 1 p.m., "Engineering on the Farm" by J. L. McKittrick, field agent in agricultural engineering.

Tuesday, December 5: 12:50 to 1 p.m., "Farm Management Forum" by L. A. Bradford, professor of farm engineering.

Wednesday, December 6: 12:50 to 1 p.m., "Doings of Kentucky Farm Folk" by C. A. Lewis, editor, Agricultural Extension Division.

Thursday, December 7: 12:50 to 1 p.m., "Agricultural Market Review" by G. P. Summers, field agent in marketing.

Friday, December 8: 12:50 to 1 p.m., "What Farm Folk Are Asking" by L. C. Brewer, College of Agriculture.

Station WLAF: Wednesday, December 6: 7:30 to 7:45 p.m., "UK Campus Kernels."

necklace of cultured pearls in graduated size, are the size of a gooseberry in the center and the size of a tiny green pea at the back. Three or five strands go right up in price from $9.50 to $27.50 and up to $35. Some of these cultured pearls are nummular or other bronze finish to compliment brown, but the price remains sky high. The combination of gunmetal pearls and white is chic, so are the crystal beads. These may be in your possession at about $20. Never were pearls so fashionable.

Christmas this year promises to be one of expensive trifles.

Girls may as well bone-up on the expense of a gift, which in other days, would have been dubbed a "little sister gift." If one hopes for perfume, remember the giver must be prepared to lay down a large fat, handsome, $10 bill for the tiny bottle of any favorite fragrance. Cologne, too, has climbed in price. The sale of $50 and $100 bottles of perfume is regarded by experts in merchandise as one yardstick of a spending spree of the nation. Today, it looks as if the season ahead promises to be one wherein important money is spent for articles which once were in the fairly inexpensive bracket. The girl who says she would like a war bond, instead of a pearl choker or perfume shows her good judgment.

Vols Defeat Kentucky 21-7 In Finale Of Tough Season

Wildcats Chalk Up Touchdown In Final Seconds Of Game

By Dick Lowe

Before an estimated crowd of 12,000 fans Tennessee's Volunteers defeated Kentucky's fighting Wildcats Saturday on Stoll field by a score of 21-7, in the 40th contest between these two bitter Southwestern Conference rivals.

Vols Score

The Volunteers scored two touchdowns through powerful line plunges and a third as the result of a blocked punt and touchdown run by Pike. The Wildcats' only tally came with only 15 seconds of the game left, when Chambers passed from the 11-yard line to Howe over the goal.

Kentucky won the toss and Captain Jim Parrott elected to kick, defending the east goal. Howe kicked to Manning who returned the ball from his own 30 to the Kentucky 46 to start the game. Manning carried the ball over for the first score of the game from the three-inch line with only nine minutes of the game completed. The six points resulted from four consecutive first downs, a sustained drive of 62 yards by Stephens and Stephenson. At the end of the first quarter Tennessee led 7-0.

Wildcats Drive

The second quarter was evenly matched with both teams fighting bitterly and driving hard but stopped before they could mass enough power to cross the goal line. Klein, Parrott and Chambers teamed together, carrying the ball to the Volunteers' 20 until the powerful Tennessee forward wall held and took the ball over on downs. At the end of the half Tennessee remained in the lead 7-0, rolling up six first downs to Kentucky's four.

Game Statistics

	Tenn.	Ky.
First downs	14	13
Yards gained rushing	156	135
Forward passes attempted	5	10
Forward passes completed	0	5
Yards by forward passing	0	96
Forward passes intercepted	1	1
Yards gained back of line	5	12
Interceptions	1	1
Punting average (for scrimmage)	38	24
Total yards all kicks returned	93	89
Yards lost by penalties	25	30

Tennessee kicked off to start the third quarter. Tom Little took the ball on the 32-yard line, returning it to the 38, making first and ten for UK. Then, after Yost and Howe had moved the ball to the Volunteers' 42-yard line, Morrow, 67' center, blocked Bill Chambers' punt. Pike picked up the ball on the mid-field stripe, running it over for Tennessee's second score. Stephenson's conversion was again good and the visitors held the winning margin, 14-0.

UT Makes Third Tally

Klein took the next kickoff on the five-yard line and returned it 26 yards before being tossed out of bounds by Morrow. Several line plunges failed to gain 10 yards, thus Chambers kicked out on the Volunteers' 41. Four first downs in a row carried UT over for the third and final score as the third quarter drew to a close.

Cats Make Late Score

The Big Blue's only score came in the final quarter. The passing of Bill Chambers brought the Kentucky rooters to their feet as the Wildcats' last minute attack through the air proved too little and too late. Chambers tossed a 33-yard pass to Klein and another one to Tom Little good for 24 yards to the 11. Then, with only 15 seconds of playing time left, Chambers faded back to the 20, took aim and threw a bullet pass to Jim Howe over the goal good for six points. Ferris' kick was good and a few seconds later the game ended with Tennessee on the long end of a 21-7 score.

Vol-Cat Football Sold To Highest War Bond Bidder

Fayette county's Sixth War Loan quota of $7,444,025 was supplemented by $105,000 last Saturday afternoon by the indirect contribution of the Kentucky and Tennessee football squads. The football used during the first half of the game was auctioned to the highest bidder, Mr. Wallace Muir, agent for Hal Price Headley Jr., who is to purchase the amount in bonds.

After the game Mr. Muir went to the dressing rooms to get the two acting captains of the teams, Billy Bevis of Tennessee and Jim Parrott of Kentucky, to autograph the ball. Other bids, totaling $55,000, were submitted and all bidders had previously agreed to purchase the amount of their bids in bonds. At present there remains a balance of $6,793,614.45 of Fayette's quota to be sold.

W.A.A. To Play In Hockey Series

The Women's Athletic Association hockey team will leave today for Louisville where they will play a series of games with the University of Louisville, Transylvania university, Centre college, and Ursuline school tomorrow morning. It was announced by Jane Oldham, president of W.A.A.

Members of the team who will attend the tournament are: Peggy Reynolds, Ruth Wilde, Libby Faulkner, Jane Erickson, Sue Nichols, Betty Lee Fleishman, Pat Shely, Yvonne Lyon, Ann Taylor, Jean Shropshire, Edna Crawford, Viola Turner, Jane Oldham, Martha Hagan, Jean Anderson, Helen Hardy, Rosemary Dummitt, Millie Johnston, Virginia Brady, Miriam Cohen, Bonnie Wooten, Reita Greenwald and Joy Francis.

shall be called the children of God." The speaker was introduced by Mr. Frederick A. Wallis, former head of the Department of Public Welfare of Kentucky, and an old friend of Dr. Polling.

Dean Leo Chamberlain presided at the convocation with Robert McNeil, assistant pastor of the Maxwell Street Presbyterian church, giving the invocation and benediction.

Vera Briscoe, research assistant in the College of Commerce, resigned, effective November 7; and Mrs. Helen F. Dicken, nurse in the Health Service resigned, effective November 1.

Dorothy Collins was appointed the student secretary of the YWCA to temporarily fill the vacancy left by Miss Rosalie Oakes' leave of absence until September 15, 1945.

Staff Changes

The following staff changes were approved in the Department of Business Management and Control: Ena Sellman, clerk-stenographer, was appointed secretary to the comptroller, replacing Elizabeth Dennis, resigned; and Edna L. Edwards, clerk in the Division of Maintenance and Operations, was transferred to the comptroller's office replacing Mrs. Sellman.

Resignations in the department included Charles W. Hayes, purchasing supervisor, who has resigned to accept a position with Emory college, and Ann Marie Curtis, clerk-stenographer.

From The Bleachers

By Betty Teris

Football bowed out last Saturday, but before it did it turned in 15 seconds Kentuckians will not soon forget. That last long touchdown pass to Howe from Chambers after a sustained drive on precise tosses didn't do anything spectacular to the score. It was Tennessee's game by then—but the last moments were Kentucky's. Indicative perhaps of this whole grid season—full of power which never surged through to the surface until the last minute—and too late.

But those minutes were a preview of things to come in 1945. Coach Ab Kirwan says he'll have a handful of this year's squad back next season and that "they have assured me that they will say here until they beat Alabama and Tennessee." Which players will be back no one can know for certain, but barring acts of God and selective service, many will be back for almost every man has enjoyed this campus and this team.

Coach Kirwan looked calmer than I've ever seen him when I asked him to say something about next year's football plans. Usually his desk had been covered with diagrams of plays and his office filled with players, but this Tuesday I found none of that. His statement was calm and sincere:

"I feel that our boys did the best they could do. I am eminently satisfied in their effort and conduct at all times. I feel that an avalanche of injuries at the beginning of the season caused us to lose some games we might otherwise have won. When we finally got our team together at the end of the season they had not progressed far enough to beat a fine team like Tennessee." And he closed with a reminder of the boys' promise to stay until they beat the Volunteers and the Crimson Tide.

Football, by its very brute strength and power has a way of pushing other things off sports pages. But now that it's retired, and not at all decidedly, from the sports picture, let's talk a minute about the WAA—Women's Athletic association. All quarter they've been playing hockey—every afternoon from 4 to 5. They're good, too—they've beaten almost every nearby college they've tackled. Tomorrow they play a tournament in Louisville and we wish them the very best of luck.

It's hard to describe their enthusiasm—but these girls, like the players on a spot-lighted football squad—have a love of the game and a sort of comradeship found only in the game. They must have wonderful times on those trips. Some day they're going to write a story about them on this page.

Clyde Johnson, Kentucky's All-American tackle, is still dragging down honors for himself—even as a lieutenant in the Infantry. Stationed at Ft. Benning, Johnson plays with the infantry's football squad—and has been named to the national All-Service eleven.

He's Been Here 44 Years

By Martha Hagan

If some of you juniors and seniors think you've been at the University for a long time, you should meet Professor Job D. Turner of the Department of Agriculture, who has the distinction of having been associated with the University longer than any other professor—he has been here 44 years.

His real connection starts farther back than that, however, when he entered "State University" as a freshman in 1894.

Mr. Turner recalls many facts about the University in its horse and buggy days. He was on the football team of 1898, and said modestly, "About all I was good at was getting hurt." But the team was dubbed the "Immortals" because of its record of winning every game on the schedule without being scored on, a record no other team of the University has ever made. "Kentucky scored 181 total points and the other teams scored 0, which wasn't bad, I thought," Mr. Turner said.

Military training was compulsory in those days, and Mr. Turner was captain of his company from 1895 to 1898. He remembers how strict the military leaders were with the boys, and how stern the matrons were with the girls. Students were marched to chapel and if boys and girls were found talking to each other, they were reported to the president. Mr. Turner remarked that while the students were well controlled, every now and then, they broke loose and had a big time.

One of these "big times" occurred once when "the boys" got one of the mules used for transportation around the campus and succeeded in putting the animal in the chapel, on the second floor of the Administration building. It shocked the faculty and delighted the students to see a mule on the speaking platform.

The students particularly disliked the policemen and reporters from the local paper on the campus, Mr. Turner recalls. One night when the boys were celebrating a football victory by firing three cannons used by the military department, policemen were sent to subdue them. Instead, the boys ended up by capturing the cops!

Mr. Turner is a charter member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and was alumnus chapter advisor for several years. "There were only about 175 students attending school when I graduated," Mr. Turner related, "and only about six main buildings." He graduated in 1898 and taught while attending school.

After graduating he practiced law in the office of the late Judge William Ayres in Pineville. He was admitted to the bar in 1910 and holds the LL.D. degree. He obtained the B.Ped. degree in 1898.

In 1900 he was made secretary to Dr. M. A. Stewart, for whom he

Serini Named To All-SEC First Team

George Washington Aloysius Serini, big Wildcat tackle whom sports writers have lauded consistently as the hard-hitting pillar of the Kentucky eleven, has been named on the All-Southern Conference first team. Serini, by his presence on the mythical squad, becomes a team-mate of McWilliams of Mississippi State, Stephens of Tennessee, and other SEC big guns who have clipped some of Kentucky's Conference hopes.

Norman Klein, wiry and lightning-like 'Cat backfield mainstay, has been named to a position on the All-SEC third eleven. Klein's spectacular broken-field running has earned him mention in sport columns all season.

Serini was invited two weeks ago to play in the annual Blue-Cray football classic at Montgomery, Ala., on December 30. The contest, conducted each year in the "Cradle of the Confederacy" is a game between outstanding members of Southern and Northern teams. Serini, a freshman, would ordinarily be ineligible, but this year's managers will probably lift the rule that only seniors may play.

Serini, who declared he would "like to get a crack at those Yankees" lives in Tuckahoe, New York.

Veterans' Club Formed On Campus

A Veterans' club formed for the welfare of veterans at the University has been established on the campus with Rex M. Turley of Mt. Sterling as president.

According to Prof. Bennet Wall of the History department, faculty advisor and sponsor of the club, the Veterans' club is becoming a national organization with several chapters already functioning at colleges in other states. Professor Wall helped in forming a chapter at the University of North Carolina.

Other officers of the club are: Lloyd Lee Booth, Mt. Holly, Ohio, vice-president; Robert Betts Eastburn, Memphis, Tenn., secretary; Lenell Jewell Burns, Greenville, Tenn., treasurer; Paul F. Sands, Louisville, sergeant-at-arms; A. J. May, Winchester, business manager. The legal advisor is Mr. W. Wesley, state supervisor of Veterans' department.

The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday at 7:00 p.m. at the Student Union building.

Marvin Akers Injured In Action

Lieut. Marvin Akers, captain of the University basketball team in 1942-43, was wounded in action on November 9, probably in France, according to the War department. His wife, Mrs. Mary Alice Akers, lives in Jeffersonville. Lieutenant Akers has been overseas since August.

Directories Ready

The Student Directory for the fall quarter has been published, and copies may be obtained at the directory desk in the Great hall of the Union building.

'Cats Maul West Virginia With Passing Skill: 40-9

By Dick Lowe

The University Wildcats, sparked by the return of Jim Howe and Bill Chambers from the injured list, romped over the University of West Virginia on Saturday, the 18th, 40-9 on Stoll field.

The first score was a field goal by Bob Haman from the 13-yard line after three successive passes and runs by Walthall failed to gain necessary yardage. That was all the scoring for West Virginia until the last few minutes of play when Leone plunged over from the six-inch line.

Klein Scores

Klein ran wide around his own left end for Kentucky's first score on the first play after Rotunno had recovered Kesling's fumble on the Mountaineers' 29-yard line. Fred Ferris converted and at the end of the first quarter Kentucky led 7-3. After a touchback, Kentucky scored on two long broken-field runs by Jim Parrott and Jim Howe. Howe ran 51 yards for the score. The kick from placement failed and Kentucky led 13-3. Fourteen min-
